

MANY SOCIAL CLUBS FORMING

Interest in Dancing Revises and Promises to Reign Supreme.

COMBINATION THE ORDER OF THE DAY

Entertainment by Organizations Gaining an Ascendancy Over Individual Efforts—Miss Allen's Debut—Events of the Week.

Interest in the social realm has manifested itself this season by the early formation of various young and card clubs. Two dancing clubs will give their initiatory balls next week, both of which promise to be most enjoyable events. The Omaha Guards are especially reputed for their hospitality and elegant appointments at their dances, which are always given by a large number of guests. The Metropolitan club, whose functions are most brilliant, and attended by the elite of Jewish circles, will soon give a reception and ball, which bids fair to be the premier event of the season. The young men of St. Philomena's parish have organized a dancing club which will meet the first Tuesday of each month. A number of society young folk of North Omaha have banded together and will give dancing parties alternate Thursday evenings. The popularity of the dances given last year by the Thurston Rifles will undoubtedly warrant a continuation of so enjoyable a pastime. If the clubs thus formed, and the exterior Omaha society will spend the evening hours in the merry whirl of the dance and cards will be relegated to the past.

Omaha can boast of one card club, however, of which she may well be proud. It is of four years' standing and counts among its members some of the wealthiest and most accomplished women of the city. The name of the club is the Forest Hill Whist club, though the members do not always confine themselves to that sedate game. The club has had only one president in the four years of its existence. Mrs. J. N. Cornish, whose gracious manner makes her an ideal president and a general favorite with the women. The members, numbering nearly thirty, meet at the different homes alternate Thursdays and after an hour or so with cards enjoy refreshments and a social time. Four prizes are awarded, which keep the interest keen, for the game is most beautiful and much to be desired. Besides these more pretentious clubs, there are countless clublets, numbering four or eight members, which meet twice a month for an evening of whist, and while these functions are not of sufficient consideration to be chronicled in the social column, nevertheless they are most enjoyable in their informality. The social world has caught the fever of the soulless corporations and will no longer be confined to the entertainments of the individual, but will be banded together with a board of directors or managers at least who will map out the mode of entertainment. Clubs are the trump card this season and judging from the fact that all the world has gone a-clubbing, the organization has come to stay.

A dozen charming young society buds have formed a club which meets alternate Thursdays and has for its object a deeper insight into the works of the old folks. The club has taken the mysterious initials O. A. T. for its name, which might seem mildly suggestive of the wild-and-raw crowd were it not for the serious study and gravely severe attitude of the young women at their meetings. To be sure, one is not permitted to enter the sanctum sanctorum till all is quiet within, and perhaps the ear will be lulled by a mild glow of one of the dear old songs. At a reading club composed of some of Omaha's brightest teachers an article on false syntax provoked much merriment. It appears that an examination in English which was lately held at a school near New York City two sentences were given out to be corrected by the scholars. The first sentence was to be corrected as to its subject matter and the second as to its syntax. These were the sentences: "The hen had three legs." "Who done it?" One of the examiners had apparently regarded the sentences as subtly connected in thought, for his answer was as follows: "The hen didn't do it; God done it."

Society will pay homage to no fairer bud this season than Miss Elizabeth Allen, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Allen, who will have her blossoming-out party November 1. Miss Allen's many graces of mind and body, her charming personality will undoubtedly win for her all the honors which society can bestow. She is a graduate of LaSalle seminary, an excellent tennis player, an enthusiast on golf and a violinist whose firm bowing and pure sympathetic tone would do credit to a more mature artist. Her almost childlike simplicity and unaffected manner make her deservedly a general favorite with both young and old.

McKay-Matthews. A very pretty wedding was celebrated Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock, when Miss Orela Matthews was married to Mr. William McKay at the residence of the bride's parents, 1810 North Nineteenth street. A small company of relatives and intimate friends was present at the ceremony, conducted by Rev. Percy Silver, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd. The cozy parlors were thronged with guests two hours later, when a reception was held to allow friends only to acquaintances an opportunity to extend congratulations.

The decorations were lavish and all in pink and white, excepting the bay-windows, which were veritable bowers of potted plants. The bride was prettily attired in a handsome gown of mousseline de sole over white silk. She carried a cluster of bridal roses and was attended by her sister, Miss Zelta, as maid of honor. The best man was Dr. N. S. Hoyt. The wedding march was played by a small orchestra of stringed instruments, the musicians being high school classmates of the bride of the year '97.

After the ceremony there was a delightful wedding feast for a select company of friends and relatives, many of whom were from other cities. The reception lasted from 8 o'clock until 10 and the attendance numbered nearly a hundred. Among the out-of-town guests were the Messrs. Stone and Mosher of Des Moines, who presided at the punch bowl, and Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Clapp of McCook, Neb. The couple will make their home in this city.

Freeman-Victor. At the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Marion Victor, 2620 Burdette street, Miss Virginia R. Victor and Mr. Victor H. Freeman were united in marriage in the presence of the family and a few intimate friends. Rev. John Williams of St. Barnabas' Episcopal church officiating. The bride was attired in white silk with pearl trimmings and carried white roses. Miss Bell Humphrey as bridesmaid was crowned with pink geraniums and carried pink roses. Mr. Charles Freeman, brother of the groom, acted as groomsmen. Mr. W. M. Victor, brother of the bride, also attended the groom. The bride, who was a teacher in the Omaha public schools, is a highly respected and accomplished young woman. The groom is one of Lexington's highly esteemed young men, his parents being among the first settlers. After the ceremony and congratulations a wedding dinner was served. The table was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, white palms and smilax were artistically arranged about the rooms. Mr. and Mrs. Freeman left on an afternoon train and will be at home to their friends after November 1, at Lexington, Neb.

Conlan-Gentleman. A very pretty wedding occurred Wednesday morning at the Holy Family church, the contracting parties being Dr. Peter T. Conlan and Miss Clara Gentleman. Miss Philomena Gentleman accompanied the bride as bridesmaid and Mr. Bryan M. Riley served as best man. Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, pastor of the church, sang the nuptial mass and performed the marriage ceremony. The body of the church was tastefully decorated with palms and ferns, while the altar presented the appearance of one mass of beautiful lilacs. The bride is the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gentleman and has friends in the city. At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding party repaired to the Millard, where the wedding breakfast was served, after which the couple left on their wedding journey. They will be at home at 2308 Cumming street Thursdays following November.

Wolcott-Schultz. Miss Hilda Schultz, daughter of Mrs. Herman Schultz, was married Wednesday at 10 o'clock to Mr. Arthur S. Wolcott. The ceremony was performed at All Saints' church by Rev. T. J. Mackay in the presence of a large congregation of friends and relatives. The church was handsomely decorated for the occasion with tall palms and a profusion of cut flowers. The bride wore an elegant gown of white silk and carried a shaggy bouquet of bride's roses. The bride's party left in the afternoon for a wedding trip to New York, where they will be the guests of Mr. Wolcott's relatives.

Entertainment for Bishops. The distinguished members of the Episcopal clergy who will be in Omaha next week to attend the convocation of the synod of Nebraska will be entertained in the following homes: Bishop-elect Rev. Arthur Williams of Chicago and Bishop Henry C. Potter of New York will be entertained by Mr. Woolworth; Bishop McLean of Chicago will be the guest of Mr. Herman Kountze; Bishop Edsall of North Dakota and Bishop Atwell of western Missouri will be at the home of Hon. John L. Webster; Bishop Morrison of Iowa will be entertained by Mr. S. D. Barkalow; Bishop Millsaps will be a guest at the home of Mr. Frederick Davis, while Bishop of Colorado will be entertained by Mr. Clement Chase.

Woman's Club Program. Mrs. Howard will have charge of the program Monday, October 16, at the Woman's club, Nineteenth and Davenport streets. An interesting program has been prepared. Miss Alice E. Howells will make her first appearance in Omaha since taking a post-graduate course at the Emerson college, and Miss Frances America McCord of Drake university, who is favorably known to Omaha audiences, will assist. Selections from Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Whittier, Sheridan and Stenckiewicz will be given. An address by Mrs. Howard and other features of an interesting nature will be introduced.

Miss Allen's Coaching Party. Miss Grace Allen gave one of the most enjoyable coaching parties of the season in honor of her guest, Miss Florence Stone of Denver. The party went to Florence, where a delicious supper was prepared. Miss Allen's guests were: Misses Slate, Elizabeth Allen, Mabel Taylor, Bessie Towle, Louise Squires, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Kountze, Mrs. Charles George, Thomas G. Frost of New York City, Edward George, Lynn Sherwood, Hilton Ponda and Ross Towle.
